

the marriage of Miss Cordle Taylor and
O. H. Bliger will take place in the cond Presbyterian church Thursday
ning, June 15, at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. C. B. Hewitt and Mrs. Henry L. Mc-Cune have out invitations for a reception on Tuesday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. Allen J. Epperson and Mrs. Solomon Btoddard.

Wealth and artistic taste had done their perfect work in the floral decoration of the house. The broad hall was set with palms, and the massive newel posts and the grand plano bore masses of bride roses, and beyond the arched doorway of the drawing plano bore massive newel posts and the grand plano bore masses of bride roses, and beyond the arched doorway of the drawing room, draped with asparagus fern, was the larke canopy of bride roses and smilar above the mantel, which, in turn, was almost concealed by a mass of roses and delicate green. Mrs. Ben Hollenback sang "Constancy," and as the last notes died away, the Behr orchestra took up the strains of the "Lohengrin" march and the bridal party appeared upon the stalense. Mr. Bert Simpson, Mr. Alfred Schauffler, Mr. Lesile Baird and Mr. Seth Serat held the broad white ribbons which marked a pathway from the stairs to the drawing room. The groom, attended by Mr. Will Perine, came first, and was followed by Mrs. Ralph Seymour, the matron of honor, breeding the bride, who leaned on the afrid.

Mr. Baird gave the bride away, and Dr. H. D. Jenkins performed the ceremony, the orchestra playing softly the white. The bride's gown was a superb affair of conventional white satin, the heavy folds of the long skirt relieved by soft ruchings at the foot, and the bodice elaborated withhead run tucks and point lace. The long well of Brussels net was confined to the lair with orange blossoms, and she carried a bounguet of bridesmald roses. Mrs. Seymour was in buttercup, yellow taffeta trimmed with point lace and cream chiffon, and carried white roses.

The pretty ceremony of cutting the bride's cake was performed in the library, which was lavishly dresed with American Beauty roses, massed on the mantel and low bookcases. Miss Grace Halbert and Miss Ruth Jenkins had charge of the cake.

The dining room was a bower of pink roses and hundreds of the charming flowers were used on the buffets and mantel. In the center of the table, a massive sliver candelabrum of many branches bore its pink tapers above a bed of pink roses, and other candlesticks were #t either end of the table, where Mrs. Harry C. Flower, Mrs. Ernest Raymond, Miss Kate Nelson and Miss Cora Alden were serving.

The hospitable capacities of the handsome house were enhanced by the broad veranda, which was enclosed with canvas, carpeted with Turkish rugs, filled with easy chairs, and adorned with palms. A punch table was placed at either end of the Promenade, presided over by Miss Juliet Welsh, Miss Helen Mohr, Miss Adeline Richards, Miss Joyce Welsh, Miss Hazel Rhodes and Miss Annie Aylesworth, Among the palms in the ballroom, on the third floor, was spread a bewildering array of all the lovely things with which the bride's small army of friends had testified their regard. But thirty guests were present, including the members of the family and the most intimate of the bride's girl friends. The house was handsomely decorated with roses and palms. Miss Grace Coburn, sister of the bride, was the officiating clergyman.

After the ceremony a small reception was held, and Mr. and Mrs. Colby left on their wedding journey. They will spend the summer at different points in the East and will go to Claremont in the autum to take possession of their new home. The at home announcement is for Tuesday afternoons and evenings in November.

Mrs. Fuller wore a handsome gown of gold en brown satin with bodice of jetten net over yellow satin and yoke of white veiled with brown net. Mrs. William Fuller was in blue and white foulard, a dainty and modish frock: and Mrs. English's pretty gown was of pale blue organdie over white silk, lace and blue ribbons.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy have added several attractions to the original plans for their lawn social which is to be given Tuesday evening at the corner of Eighth and Troost avenue. There will be a musical and literary entertainment, and also a large cake in charge of young ladies, the toothsome compound to be raffied.

The largest and most elaborate ceremonial of the week was that of Miss Myrtle Baird and Mr. John Chisholm, which was a symphony in plak. The table celebrated on Tuesday evening. June 6, at 7 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Welsh on 'Linwood avenue. Very nearly 390 guests were bidden and, of course, no one stayed away, unless he or she were out of town or too ill to attend and the consequence was that the Weish residence spaclous as it is, was crowded with brown satin with bodice of jetten net over yellow satin and yoke of white veiled with brown net. A veranda tea was what Miss Burnham designated her Monday morning function for Miss Mary Coburn and Mr. Colby, for the very good reason that the guests were received and entertained on the long veranda, skirting three sides of the house. The idea was a charming one, and lent a pleasantly original flavor to the affair. Rows of tall palms served as a screen and were also a lovely accessory to the long vista of rugs and easy chairs and the usual parlor equipment. A mandolin orchestra was hidden among the palms, and a lemonade was served from a prettily decorated table in charge of Miss Ella Burnham and Miss Fannie James. About seventy-five guests were in attendance. Miss Burnham was assisted by Mrs. J. K. Burnham.

Mr. Carl Parker's marriage to Miss Susan Hedge Amsden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Bearce, of Abilene, Kas., was solemnized with a very pretty ceremony at the home of the bride on Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock. A profusion of flowers, very beautifully arranged, decorated the rooms, and especially lovely was the canopy beneath which the bride and groom stood, unattended, during the ceremony. This was formed of white point desprit almost entirely covered with ferns. At either side was a pillar of ferns topped with white roses, and flanked at the base with great jardinieres of white roses, Rev. Dr. S. M. Neel, of this city, performed the ceremony.

The morning affair which society finds extremely agreeable at this season of the year was pleasantly exemplified in Mrs. S. N. Barrigar's coffee yesterday morning given for Miss Edith Ellis and Miss Sadle Barrigar, who will leave this week for an extended Eastern trip, during which they will visit Providence and Newport in Rhode Island, as well as various other summer resorts.

About 175 invitations were sent out. A very pretty church wedding was that of Miss Alma Stubenrauch and Dr. Gordon A. Beedle, which occurred Wednesday evening, June 7, at 6:30 o'clock, in the Westport Baptist church. Miss Cora Tracey sang. "O, Promise Me," just before the coming of the bridal party. Mrs. Schultz was the organist, and played the wedding marches.

sang. "O. Promise Me," just before the coming of the bridal party. Mrs. Schultz was the organist, and played the wedding marches.

It was a white and green wedding, and the altar was almost hidden by a pyramid of tall palms. The march from "Lohengrin" signalized the arrival of the bridal party. The four ushers, Mr. Carl Stubenrauch, Mr. Chester Irbin, Mr. Claude Beedle and Mr. Chester Irbin, Mr. Claude Beedle and Mr. Chester Irbin, Mr. Claude Beedle and Mr. Daniel Swan, preceded the bridesmaids, who were gowned allke in airy frocks or white organdle, trimmed with lace and ruffles, and wore stocks and sasshes of lett, tuce green silk, and carried bouquets of Carnot roses, a lovely white rose faintly flushed with pink. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Lyle, Miss Madelaine Trestrail, Miss Fet Lyle and Miss Ida Hamilton. The matron of honor, Mrs. George Shepard Clarke, was gowned all in white and carried white roses.

The bride's gown was of white satin elaborately trimmed with point lace and chiffon. She wore a corsage knot of lilles of the valley, which also were caught in the folds of ber veil against her hair, and carried a large bouquet of the same flowers.

After the ceremony, the bridal party, and relatives were entertained at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stubenrauch, 1100 Garfield avenue. Very beautiful flowers were in every room, American Beauties in the parlor, La France roses in the dining room, while palms and ferns were were present. Miss Daisy Evans entertained in a charming manner with a dancing party Thursday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Helene J. Fitz, of Springfield, Mass. The rooms were elaborately decorated with scarlet carnations interspersed with green. Mrs. J. H. Luker dispensed punch most graciously at a table installed in a cosy alcove, the background of which was banked with ferns and graceful palms, overarched with asparagus ferns. Zimmerschied's orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The spacious plazzas and lawn were brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns and various cosy corners proved very attractive. The heavy rainfall did not interfere with the attendance. Miss Evans was assisted by her mother. Mrs. M. L. Evans, Miss Helene Fitz and Miss Ida Williams, of Neosho. The guests were:

The marriage of Miss Anna Elizabeth Edelmann and Mr. James Edgar Snow was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Edelmann.

2518 Broadway, Wednesday evening, at 3 o'clock. The first parlor—in which the ceremony was performed—was decorated with garlands of smilax and asparagus fern, with jars of roses, ferns and palms forming the recess in which the bridal party stood.

The bride was attired in cream white tuile de sole, the bodice with shirred yoke extending up to form the high close collar, and the skirt en traine, with pointed overdrapery edged with cream lace and applique. She carried a shower of bride roses. The maid of honor, Miss Catherine Edelmann, was in pink tulle and carried a hand bouquet of La France buds.

The groom was attended by his.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Sam L. Snow. The marriage rites were performed by Rev. Father Pendergast.

After the ceremony a reception was held by the bridal party, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Edelmann, the bride's parents, and by her sisters, Mrs. Charles Sanderson and Miss Mamile Edelmann. Miss Carrie Sealy and Miss Tunney served punch.

An elegant collation was served in the dining room just previous to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Snow, who left for Colorado Springs and Salt Lake city on their wedding journey.

The presents received were numerous and beautiful, among then a substantial check from the groom's firm, Knollin & Booth.

A very pretty wedding took place last A very pretty wedding took place last Tuesday in Wheatland, Mo., when Mr. J. Benjamin Crowley, of this city, was mar-ried to Miss Eva Liggett, daughter of Mr. William H. Liggett, a banker of Wheat-land. Mr. Liggett's handsome country home was beautifully decorated with ferns and lilles in profusion. Mrs. S. A. Jack-son, sister of the bride, played the wedding march as the bridal party advanced beneath a splendid arch of gleaming, golden-throated illies, and stood before the Rev. Mr. B. F. Thomas, who performed the ceremony in a very impressive manner. The bride wore a dainty frock of Paris muslin and lace, and carried a bouquet of illies. The bride was the recipient of many elegant presents. A large number of friends and relatives were present, many coming from out-of-town.
